Live in Care

There are many reasons why people may require live-in care; whether you are in need of a little companionship, leaving a loved one for a short break or you simply need that additional support if circumstances are becoming increasingly challenging for you or a loved one. Live-in care offers unique full-time one-to-one support to both individuals and couples in the familiar surroundings of their own home, ensuring that you or your loved one can remain as independent as possible and avoid the need for a care home or nursing home placement. Our live-in service is tailored to each person's needs and aspirations, no matter what their level of dependency.

Having a full-time carer not only provides you with personal guidance and support but also reassurance and peace of mind to family and friends situated close by or further afield. The permanent presence of a live-in carer enables family and friends to be confident that help is at hand where and when needed. Our live-in care service is available to adult and elderly individuals and it can be utilised both on a long-term or short-term basis, for needs of high-level dependency and complex conditions to assistance in rehabilitation or companionship. Whilst we will tailor a care package to suit your needs, please refer to the personal care services page for an overview of the traditional services we offer. If you would like more information about our live-in care services and how we can support you or your loved one, please get in touch and we will be happy to assist you.
